

Art Guides

Editors' Picks: 8 Must-See Art Events This Week

These should help with your Armory Week hangover.

artnet News, March 7, 2016

Torkwase Dyson, Strange Fruit (2015). Photo: Courtesy of the artist Torkwase Dyson.

Torkwase Dyson (<http://www.torkwasedyson.com/>), “Unkeeping (<http://eyebeam.org/events/unkeeping>)” at Industry City Gallery

Over the course of the past two years, artist Torkwase Dyson has taken her practice into the realm of geometric abstraction. In “Unkeeping,” a collection of the artist’s drawings, paintings, and sculpture, Dyson resurfaces with her findings.

As Eyebeam describes the exhibition, the work “spans modular architecture, data visualization, and black spatial matters under the rubric of environmentalism.” Put simply, Dyson’s work charts and overturns sites of violence, which range from auction blocks to garrets and lynchings, in order to deepen our understanding and reclaim our experiences of these built environments.

Location: 220 36th Street, Brooklyn

Price: RSVP recommended for opening Time: Opening reception 7:00 p.m.–9:00 p.m.; 12:00 p.m.–6:00 p.m. Friday through Sunday

—Rain Embuscado